A year for the young

Miss Shirley Payne --- One who could

She learned as well as taught and unselfishly offered her knowledge to each and every one.

She helped where help was desperately needed.

She was both a listener and a consoler—truly a teacher AMONG the students.

What if there was no one to teach with the skill necessary to penetrate young, restless minds?

What if there was no one to trust, and be worthy of such trust?

What if there was no one there to understand; if there was no one who FELT as young as we ARE, who could understand our problems?

What if there was no one who was calm in times of trouble; when everyone else has deserted us—who would we turn to?

What if there was no one who could find joy in the happiness of others—no one who found pleasure in giving of oneself?

What if there was no one there to rejoice in our laughter, cry in our sorrow, and share in our love?

What if there was no one there to call “friend” as well as “teacher”?

What if there was no one there to curb our tongues when we shout OBSCENITIES or congratulate us on BEAUTEOUS work?

If there had been no one willing to sacrifice hours of her free time, the 1970 JESTER would never have been completed, and so we proudly dedicate our book to you, our “coach” . . .

be called a "friend" as well as "teacher"

Surprise was the true element, for little did she suspect the quiet whispering and secret smiles.

With the news came a few tears—tears of joy—for she loved the staff as the staff loved her.

She was one who could find joy in the happiness of others and pleasure in giving of oneself.

With a smile on her face and tears in her eyes, Miss Payne gratefully accepted the unexpected honor.

A true teacher and learner of mankind.

Here they come
Here they come, yeah
Some are walking, some are riding
Here they come, yeah
And some are flying, some just gliding
Released after years of being kept in hiding
They're climbing up the ladder rung by rung

Enter the young, yeah
Yeah, they've learned to think
Enter the Young, yeah
More than you think they think
Not only learned to think, but to care
Not only learned to think, but to dare
Enter the young

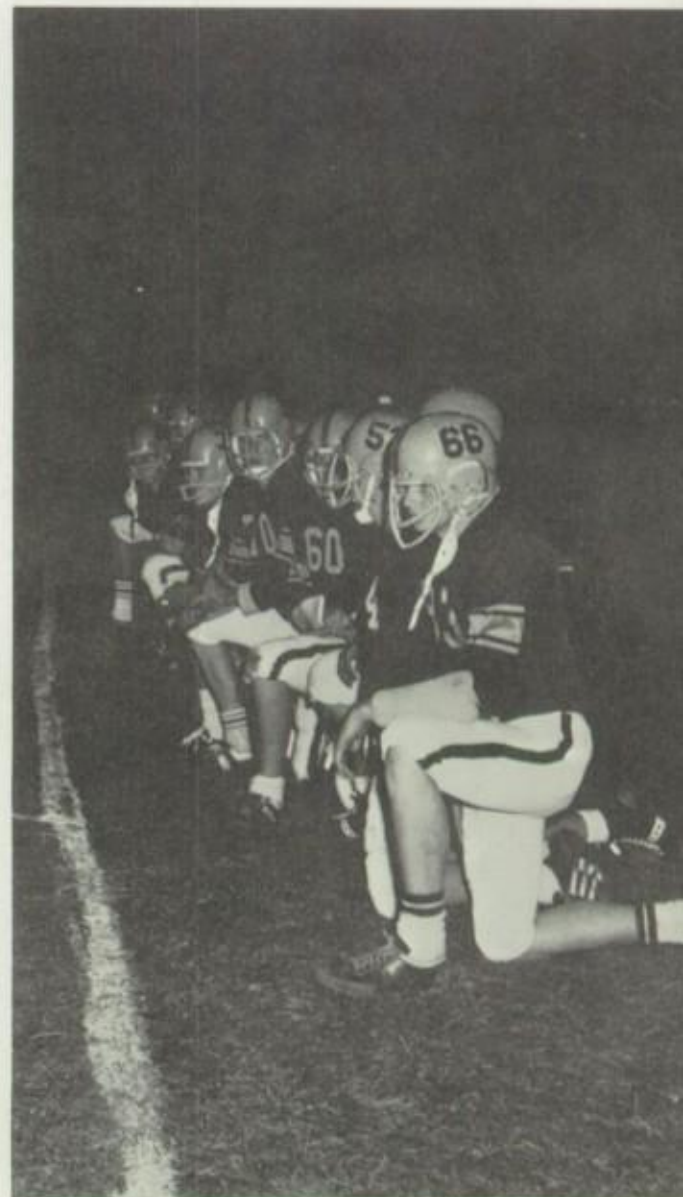

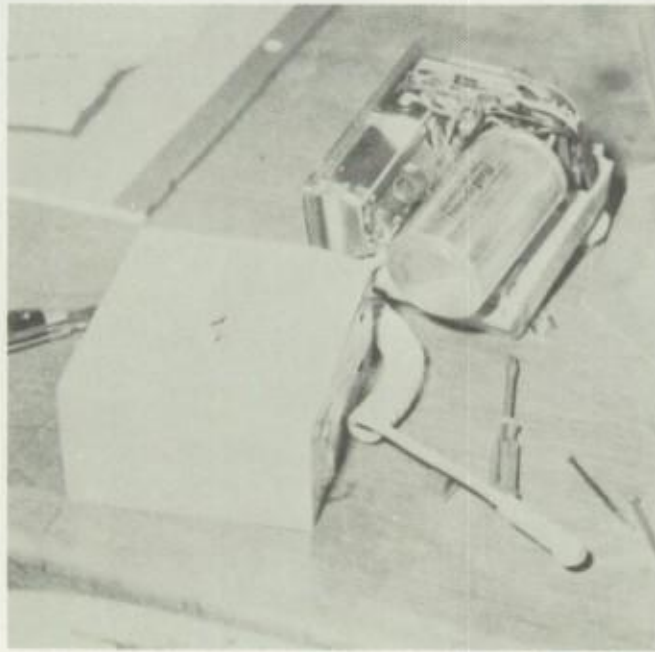

Yeah, here they come
Some with questions, some decisions
Here they come
And some with facts and some with visions
Of a place to multiply without the use of divisions
To win a prize that no one's ever won

Here they come, yeah
Some are laughing, some are crying
Here they come
And some are doing, some are buying
Some are living, some are dying
But demanding recognition one by one

Enter the young, yeah
Yeah, they've learned to think
Enter the young, yeah
More than you think they think
Enter the young

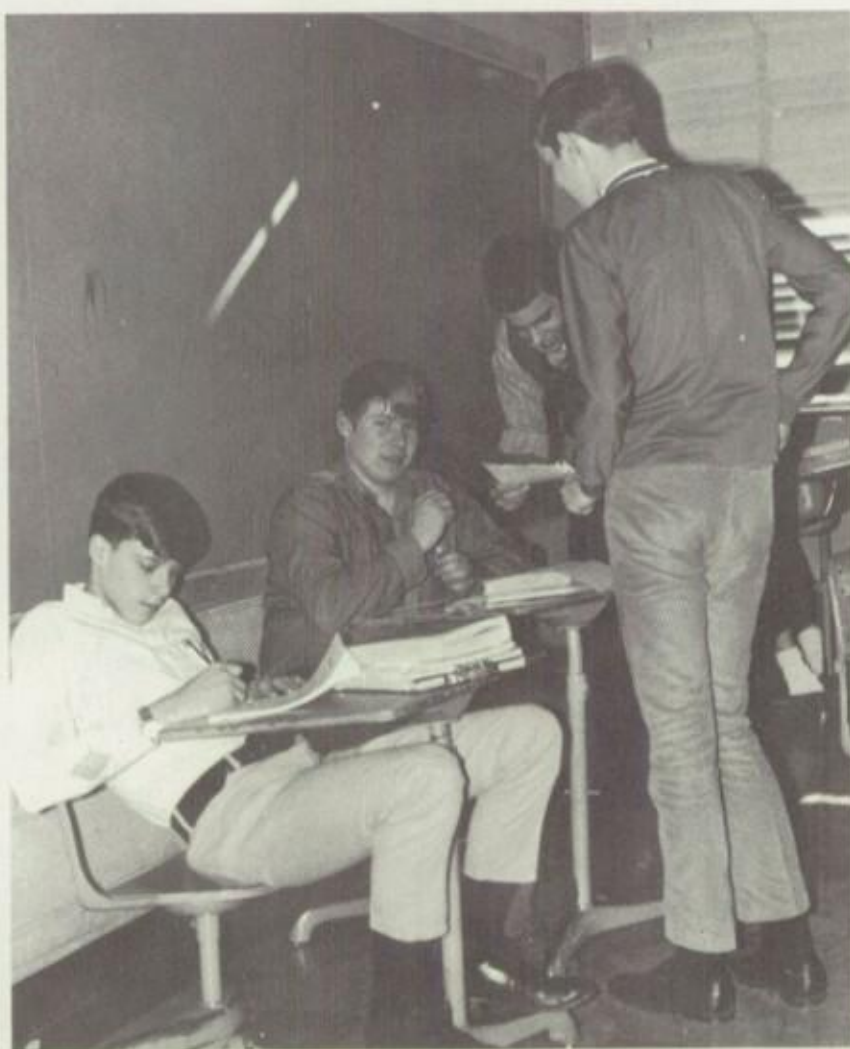

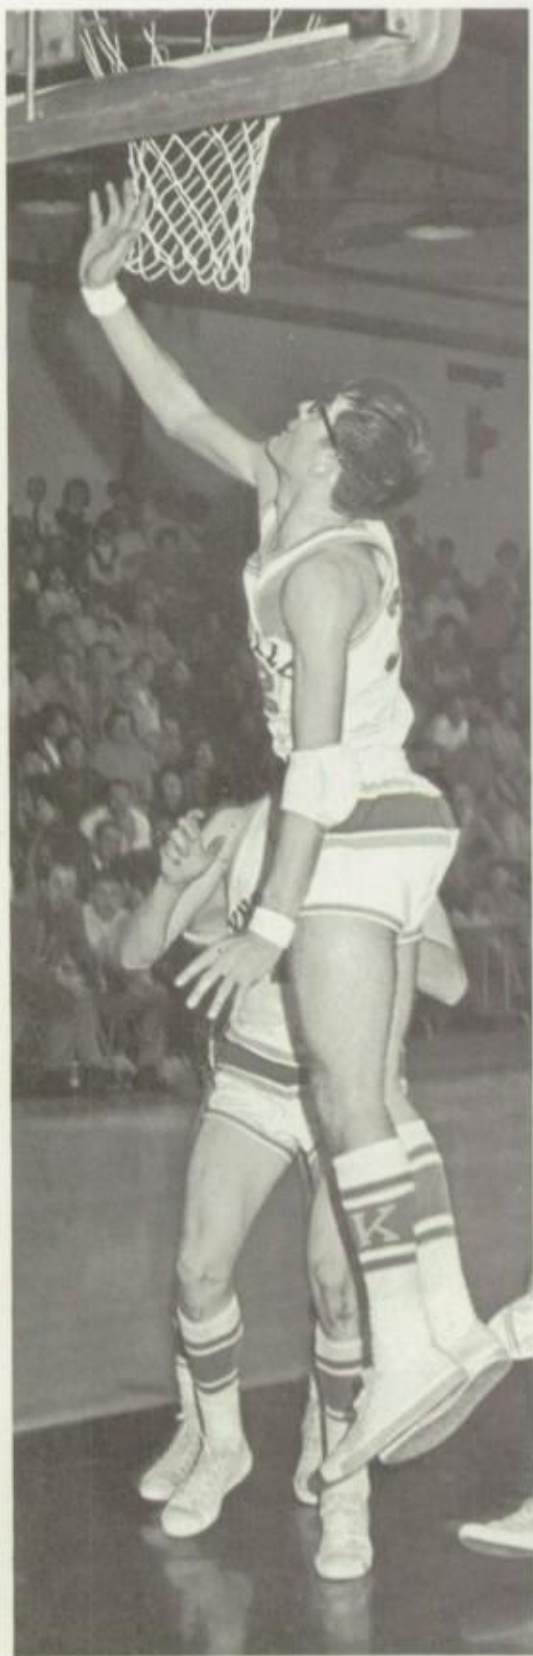

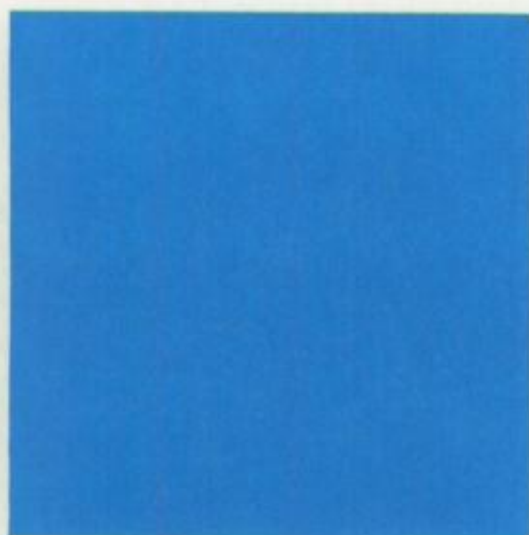

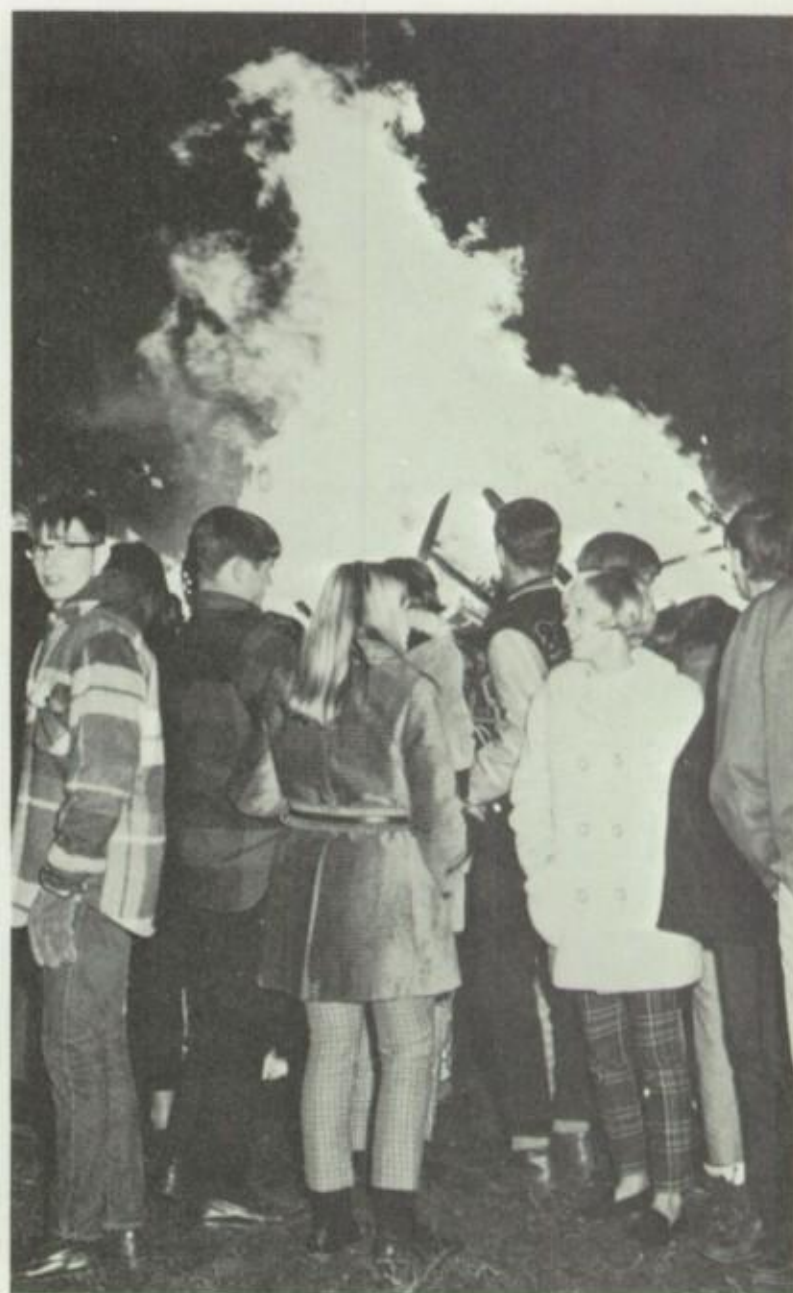

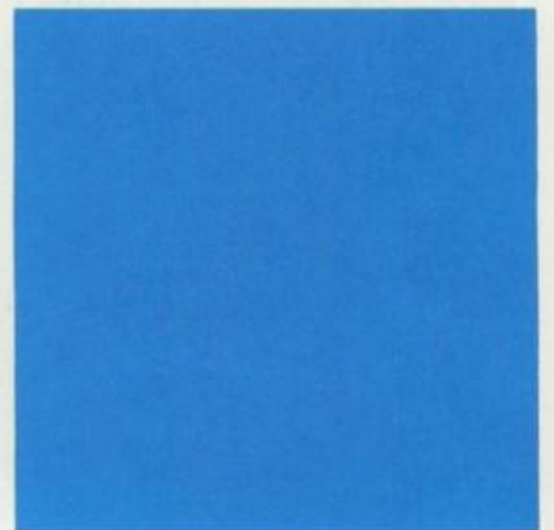

Enter the young . . . some are laughing, some are crying, some are doing, some are trying

Moon serves as inspiration for Peg Jones screams, "I thought blondes were supposed to have more fun!"

The great responsibility of putting on a successful Homecoming was accepted with vigor by the Senior Class which decided that the theme would be "Everyone's Gone To The Moon." Thursday's activities were the climax of much anticipation and effort as all classes and organizations collected materials for one of the greatest bonfires Knoxville has known. A combination of the bonfire and auction enhanced the spirits of all who participated in the Homecoming activities. The success of this Homecoming was greatly contributed to by the combined efforts of the other classes and organizations as displayed by their imaginative floats. The Sophomore Class showed extraordinary creativity in their first place float. In second place were the seniors and FFA floats who tied because of equal originality.

What do you mean take it down and start over!

Master of Ceremonies

At last the moment had come; the 1969 Homecoming coronation with all its awe and mystery was to unveil the enchanted royalty. Organist Gregg Hart set the mood with chords of "Fly Me To The Moon." Cheryl Cramer, with the help of Master of Ceremonies Mark Baxter, honored former Homecoming royalty, welcoming them back to KHS with roses and boutonnieres. Mark then proceeded to introduce the royalty as they descended from a shining spaceship to make their memorable journey to the moon. Gregg then rendered to the audience the theme song, "Everyone's Gone To The Moon." The climax of the evening was reached when last year's royalty, Dianne Fergusson and Gary Clark crowned Queen Carol Peck and King John Anderson. Their glowing faces and joyfilled hearts provided evidence that they had surpassed Cloud Nine and were surely on their way to the moon, truly a dream come true. After the coronation, the students, faculty, and alumni were entertained by the Meen from Chicago.

"Sands of Gold" initiates all-night

The uniqueness and creativity of the Class of '71 were again reflected through their ability to present an Hawaiian prom, "Sands of Gold." On Saturday, May 9 variegated lighting, multicolored paper flowers, and numerous sea shells created an Hawaiian mood at the Lake Bracken Country Club. Immediately following the banquet certificates were given to those seniors who had been voted "the most..." by their classmates. The Charles Knapp Band provided music for the dance. Still further action was seen following the dance as students ventured to the Northgate Lanes in Galesburg for the first all-night prom in KHS history. With fond farewells and happy memories, the 1970 Prom came to an end.

Dancing to the music of Mr. Knapp's band seems to have put a wild streak into Mr. Tarochione.

Organizations

Advisor Mrs. Bruner watches carefully as Vice President Beth Yemm, President Dave Thompson, Secretary Charlene Campbell, and Treasurer Bev Thompson show how to construct a float.

The Latin and French Clubs were separate only in name this year, as the endeavors of both clubs were united in many respects. Replacing individual club "Stunt Nights" was a Language Clubs Stunt Night, an event which proved to be more profitable and enjoyable than previous individual events had been. The two clubs also combined efforts to work on their Homecoming float, under the guidance of a committee composed of representatives of both organizations. As individual organizations, both clubs spent a profitable year, again finding a common goal in financing their Spring projects — the Latin Club Banquet and the French Club Field Trip.

FHA members, after being exposed to different types of balanced diets, would approve of the great American "health" drink that Jeff Putnam is enjoying.

The school year was officially begun for the Future Homemakers of America when members sponsored an after-the-game sock hop as a money-making project. Later the annual Father-Daughter evening was held, "Daddy-Date Night." During the course of the year, club members sold KHS pennants, stationery, Christmas decorations, and recipe cards. The profit from these business projects went toward departmental field trips — designed to help further the members' skills as they prepared themselves to be future homemakers.

Individuals in the Future Farmers of America, forty-five strong, were kept busy in their study of agricultural occupations this year. In keeping with the club's tradition, members participated in activities in areas of production, management, leadership, cooperation, and mechanics. Busy all twelve months of the year, members took part in a great many activities — the Section IV Show, FFA Leadership Classes, the Chicago Stock Show, and Summer State Convention. The organization was awarded several prizes in competition as a whole, as were many individuals. Completing the year's activities with the annual Parents' Banquet, the organization was indeed able to point to its motto as being fulfilled.

Industrial Arts develops skills

Bill snickers, "Well, you wanted a haircut."

Learning the many uses of tools and lightweight machinery was one of the important objectives of the Industrial Arts Club this year. Knowledge of this sort has been fundamental to club members, for with it, they made low-cost repairs. Organizational field trips to displays exhibiting handiwork of this type were also a part of the club's program. Overall, the work of these future handy men has helped the entire department to prosper.

Office workers perform time-consuming tasks

Mrs. Carlton, supervisor of the office workers, dials a familiar number, "Hello, Mrs. Mastin . . ."

Representing the school as they went about their duties as receptionists, couriers, and monitors, the student office workers did a great deal in helping out in the offices of Mr. King and Mr. McKillip. In doing so, the students performed an endless stream of simple, but time-consuming and necessary tasks such as collecting attendance slips, answering the telephone, setting up appointments, running off stencils for teachers, and guiding visitors through the halls of KHS.

Tom Mastin, a familiar "visitor" to the office, takes aim with his tiny bow and arrow for another bout with Mr. King.

Pep Club sparks vivacious spirit

PEP CLUB OFFICERS: Jane Little, Vice President; Jane Mathers, Treasurer; Mrs. Lundquist, Advisor; Theresa Michael, President; and Debbie Jones, Secretary.

Marshaled by the need for increased school spirit, Pep Club members found themselves involved in many new ventures. Among these were presenting skits at pre-game pep assemblies, writing new cheers, selling "pep" armbands, and signs. Boosted by the tremendous efforts of the KHS athletic squads, the year terminated with a higher feeling of "spirit" which made the Pep Club's labors very pleasing, indeed.

Here John Cowman seems to be saying, "I didn't know that's how to spell HOMER."

A common sight to Bullet opposition was scenes such as this one as the fans again praised their team.

GAA incorporates new point-keeping system

The GAA future looks hopeful as President Peg Jones shows the leadership it takes to Vice President Barb Peck and Secretary Jan Boyer.

Activities of the Girls' Athletic Association were undertaken with new goals in mind this year. A new point-keeping system was incorporated whereby members were awarded "points" for attendance at club meetings and participation in GAA activities. At the end of the year, members with the highest percentage of points were honored at a dress-up dinner at Meling's Restaurant in Monmouth.

Council seeks liberalization of dress code

Inheriting a large debt was only one of the many problems that faced the Senior High Student Council as it began its new year. The '69-'70 term brought further representation of the student body, influencing the formulation of school policies and programs. Besides erasing the debt incurred in previous years, the Council did much to benefit the KHS students. Revision of the existing dress-code to a more liberal one was the first major project undertaken. Plans for a "Senior Lounge" were also formulated and sent to faculty and administration for approval. Several special assemblies were also financed by the Council's treasury.

SENIOR HIGH STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS: Peg Jones, Secretary-Treasurer; Wayne Mastin, Vice-President; Jean Whitworth, President.

Somehow, I'm convinced bareback riding does have its hang-ups.

Members activate new plans for governing

I TOLD you the teachers would yell at us for wearing shoes in the gym!

So this is how the Council's latest news gets around!

Junior High Student Council Officers and Advisor: Beth Lacy, Jeff Moore, Mrs. Block, Steve Hickerson, Sheryl Healey.

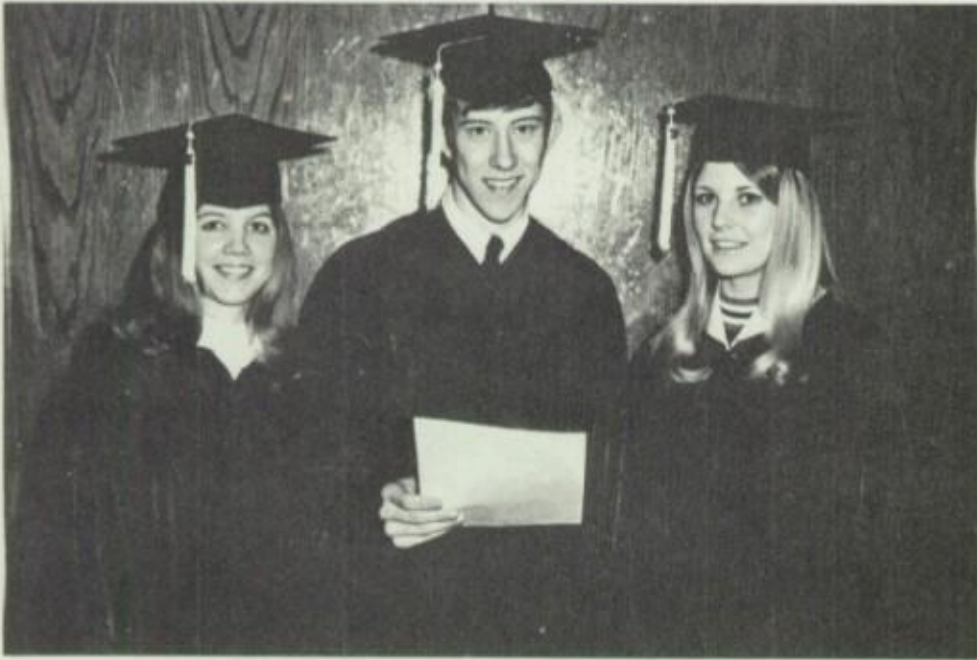

The school year of the Junior High Student Council was marked by well-managed student government and, consequently, commendable financial success. The active council sold candy during their lunch hour, uniquely patrolled the stairs in that time, and organized a Junior High Christmas Party. All activities were received and participated in with enthusiasm by the seventh and eighth grade students, thus providing the Council with their final and most significant achievement.

Future teachers end second year at KHS

With the start of the new school year, members of the Future Teachers of America began working toward the correction of two problems — a money deficit and a decline in membership due to graduation. Five FTA'ers served as delegates to the Section IV FTA Workshop held in Biggsville in September. Members were also allowed to teach at Mabel Woolsey Elementary School for a day, an experience both profitable and enjoyable. Other projects, such as the Little Six Dance, were also undertaken.

Perhaps the most rewarding, even though sometimes exasperating project that the club undertook, was the publishing of a monthly FTA newspaper. The paper, THE BLUE AND GOLD, tried to tie together all aspects of the FTA's ideals — scholarship, leadership, and preparation.

Library Club involves more than books

"I wonder why everyone's staring at us?"

Bob White ponders, "... 1970 Buick ... only 10¢. I wonder if there is a catch?"

Once again the Library Club members proved to be invaluable as they worked on the tedious tasks that accompanied the maintenance of the KHS Library. These duties included the checking in and shelving of books, filing cards, and other various errands. The special project of the year was corresponding with KHS graduates serving in the Armed Forces. To help finance the annual field trip to a college campus, the members sold notebooks and maintained a book supply room.

Although display of positive citizenship is believed to be an outmoded activity among the youth of America, evidence to the contrary is quite apparent in Illini Girls State and Premier Boys State. Government on the local, state, and national levels was defined and practiced by but a handful of American citizens at State, who in turn spread their enriched knowledge beyond the peoples of camps. Chosen to represent the Knoxville community at Girls State were Diana Courter and Karen Sanford; and at Boys State Roger Cochran, Homer Fleisher, Doug Flinn, Gary Johnson, Dennis Peterson, and Danny Simmons.

Selling candy, helping teachers by typing stencils, and working on the Blue Bulletin—these were only a few of the activities of the Business Club this year. While membership in the organization was open to any person enrolled in business courses, many of the members were there to help strengthen their skills in the business field. Thus, these people made good use of their capabilities. Business Club members profited not only in their club activities but also as individuals.

Blue Bulletin brings new vein of humor

Carol Peck, Noreen Nelson, Linda Whitsitt, and Jackie Whiteside pause for a moment of relaxation away from the BLUE BULLETIN.

Returning after a year's absence, the BLUE BULLETIN brought a new vein of humor into the year's day-to-day occurrences. With this new outlook, staff members produced a newspaper geared to the students' interests. Covering sports events, club activities, and individual "happenings" ("Grover Groover", for example) at KHS, the paper brought originality into a year that might otherwise have been passed by.

Yes, Jean, a good secretary always sits erect and smiles her best smile, but she also plugs in her machine before she starts to type.

Forry Davis cringes in fear as Noreen threatens his life.

Two and two are four according to most people, except Mr. Murdock who thinks that it is six.

Now that I have that out of my system, I will go on . . . and on . . . and on. This year we had a very fun-loving staff that not only made this book together, but also did many other things together. This year's staff worked as a team (when we worked), and I'm sure you will agree that a team works better than a group of individuals. I hope that this year's JESTER will give you many happy memories of your stay (or sentence) at KHS and especially many wonderful memories to the superior seniors.

Its leaders and members exhibited this quality through duties that varied from taking tickets at athletic events to painting scoreboards and goal posts and re-aligning the football field. Blue Bullets fight overwhelming odds

Inexperience was conquered by spirit and brought forth two victories for the 1969 season. Coach Bob Kniss and four returning lettermen willingly fought the overwhelming odds stacked against them in the Little Six Conference. Although small in size, the speed and desire to win created opposition for their opponents. Finishing sixth in the Little Six was no indication of how the team played. With a couple of breaks in a couple of games they could have ended up with a 4-4 record instead of 2-6. The Blue Bullets started right where they left off last year by beating Cuba. This enabled Knoxville to keep the traveling trophy which is passed between these two teams. Allen Shepherd and Jeff Putnam were chosen by their fellow "hard guys" as co-captains for this year's team. Shepherd was again chosen the MVP because of his accomplishments of being the leading ground gainer for the third straight year along with his outstanding defensive qualities which allowed him to lead the Bullets as leading tackler.

JV's go through season without own coach

The Junior Varsity squad ended the year with a record of defeat, but gained valuable experience necessary for varsity football. Starting the season with the ambition to prove themselves "hard guys", they were soon confronted with the disadvantage of not having their own coach. However, Bob Kniss, the varsity mentor, took time to coach the JV players the execution and formation of different plays.

BB's prove to be promising prospects

The Junior High football team had a relatively successful season which included one victory, three losses, and one tie. Coach John Rosene and Assistant Coach James Patterson attempted to teach the Baby Bullets the fundamentals of football which they would rely on in their future years. Top scorers for the team were Junior Marquith and Ron Nelson, and the leading linemen were Bruce Litchfield and Jeff Moore. Jim Pettifurd and Paul Mathews, seventh graders, contributed their skills and proved themselves to be promising prospects for next year's team.

With a dream in mind, talent and desire at hand, and a few welcomed miracles, the 1969-70 Blue Bullets recorded the first undefeated season in the history of KHS. Coach Jerry Hise started the year with four returning lettermen and a pre-season rating that didn't set well with any of them. He then took his lettermen and eleven confident others, gave them the incentive, and produced a team that won the Knoxville Invitational Tourney, the Knox County Tourney, and the Little Six Conference, broke the school records for most consecutive wins (25) and the most wins in a single season (25), finished the regular season undefeated, and nearly captured the Regional Tourney. The "never-say-die" attitude that showed so obviously in each member of the team was especially noticeable in one individual. And for this reason, Allen Shepherd was voted MVP and Captain by his teammates.

Junior letterman Don Johnson alternated in serving as the fifth starter and could always be counted on in the clutch. Rick Hulick and John Cowman came off the bench to spark new life into the game as did John Litchfield, Mark Baxter, Homer Fleisher, Tom Pferschy, Jerry Scalf, Bob White, and Dave Becker. The team's desire to win was best exemplified by Galva coach Brian Humphrey after their nerve-racking overtime loss to the Bullets when he stated, "You can't beat 'em; they believe in miracles."

The KHS Junior Varsity struggled through a disappointing season with numerous close games which were deciding factors in the overall record. Although their record (6-14) was not too impressive, the JV's showed ability to handle the ball in many instances. For example, the team placed Third in the Knox County Tourney. There was much promise in the JV team which will come in handy for their varsity careers.

Coaches Ragsdale and Grzalski show a concerned look at some facet of their team.

When Coach Larry Ragsdale fielded his team in March, no one expected too much from them. Although the overall record does not look too impressive on paper, Coach Ragsdale's cindermen did not fail to generate some excitement and administer a couple of big surprises. The biggest of these surprises was the very impressive County Championship. The Bullets compiled 97½ points to hang on to the prestige of being County Champs. The K-men also captured the very tough Princeville Relays, a meet in which last year's fine team wound up third. They also took third at the Monmouth Relays, sixth in the Kewanee-Wethersfield Relays, and fourth in the Little Six Conference Relays. The team ended the season with a 2-3 record in dual and triangular meets; one of these wins was a very impressive victory over Canton. Dan Simmons was chosen by fellow team members to be honorary captain of this year's team while Phil Johnson acted as Captain during the season. R. J. White was deemed MVP by his teammates. John Litchfield won the KNOXVILLE JOURNAL Scholastic Athletic Award. Kirk Sanford and Bill Beardsley will serve as next year's captains. The future looks bright as freshman Richard Carr won the Tulin Award. Two records were broken this year and both at the distance of 440 yards. The open 440 record was broken by R. J. White who broke the twine at 52.8, and the 440 yard Relay record was set by the team of Bill Boydston, Bill Beardsley, R. J. White, and Dan Simmons.

Freshmen win Little Four

Though the JV tracksters did not turn in a fabulous season, they instilled great hopes in Head Coach Larry Ragsdale. Many of the JV's ran in Varsity contests and two of them won the Varsity K's. One of these two won the Tulin Award and broke two school records. Fine individual performances were not scarce. Some of these were Richard Carr, Bill Boydstun, Rich Fleisher, George Cummings, and Tim Clewell. The future looks bright. The freshmen saved face for a somewhat non-impressive JV season as they earned first place in the Little Four Track Meet. During this meet, Richard Carr broke two records, the shot and the discus.

Coach John Rosene's Junior High team suffered from the same illness that the JV's had to cope with, a lack of size and numbers. But as seen on the JV team, individual performers glistened in the darkness of the hour. The Baby Bullets were led throughout the season by three fine trackmen, Tony Smith, Dan Snider, and Tom Fleisher.

Success of a season is determined not only by the quality of the team but also by the quality of the fans. This year the five sets of cheerleaders, coached by Mrs. Lundquist, did an outstanding job in leading the fans with cheers and boosting the teams' spirit in football and basketball. The girls competed in the National Cheerleading Foundation at Champaign with fifty other schools. The Eighth Grade squad placed first, while the JV squad placed third. Although the remaining girls did not place, they scored very highly. The varsity squad started the season at a slight disadvantage with two inexperienced girls who joined three others, and with many hours of hard work they formed a top-notch rank of cheerleaders. The students of KHS should be proud of the effort put forth by their school's representatives.

The tempo of the Knoxville High School Orchestra can best be described as "allegro," that is, a very active and productive year. With music expressing a variety of moods and musical stylings, all public performances contained universal appeal. Among some of the refreshing concerts were the Spring Concert, a much-appreciated concert at the Knox County Nursing Home, and an educational performance at Mable Woolsey Grade School. Along with participating in the Mississippi Valley Music Festival, various chamber groups were active in community entertainment. One of the forte accomplishments of the organization was receiving a superior rating at State Music Contest. An accent to the year was the annual trip to Chicago.

Fall returned to Knoxville once more, bringing with it anticipation of what the new school year would bring. The enthusiasm displayed by students and faculty was great, but it was far surpassed by that of KHS band members, for cries of "Charge!" and "Eat 'em up!" greeted autumn in Knoxville as the band began its marching season once again. Undaunted by under-the-lights practices, wind, and poor weather, the band marched on, performing faithfully in parades, pep rallies, and half-time shows. Fall had to end, however, and winter and basketball season meant the revival of the Stage Band and between-game concerts. Proving individual and organizational accomplishment was another of the late winter and early spring activities executed. The band participated in state music contest, placing high. In late spring, members began to prepare for summer and the summer band program. Behind the scenes in all of these activities were hours of hard, time-consuming work; work that was well rewarded by the pride with which the KHS band was viewed by the entire community.

If good beginnings guarantee success, the KHS Music Department should have more than its share of superior musicians in the future. Fortified by unusual talents and skills, the junior high music program proved its ability to adapt to various situations. By emphasizing the fundamentals of music reading, intonation, marching, and sight-reading, the students were prepared to take their places in the Senior High Band.

Mrs. Carlton confers with a student over an important question concerning her presence in class.

Returning again this year to guide students and teachers in their roles at KHS were Mr. Bartee, Superintendent of Schools, and Mr. King, High School Principal. Fulfilling these positions was no small task, for Mr. King was faced with the everyday problems of the school proper, and Mr. Bartee with the predicaments facing the entire school district—teachers, pupils, board members, and taxpayers. Both being responsible for molding the students' character, the administrators found themselves working toward one goal—to give district students an education enabling them to become reliable adults and responsible citizens. With "strong hands" and "willing" communication between the administration and the student body, some old ways were replaced by new.

Dependence upon the ordinary found no place reserved for it in the English and Language Departments this year. While the basics of English — grammar, reading, spelling, and composition — were ever present, they became secondary concerns, for this was a year of exploration with CHANGE as the watchword. Special experimental programs, including English I and English II enrichment, and individualized studies for English III, College Prep, and French students replaced "traditional" courses for many students.

Basing its program on the accomplishments of previous years, the Science Department endeavored to bring students into contact with the newest scientific principles and ideas this year. With new horizons crossed in all scientific fields, both students and teachers found it impossible to keep up with day to day changes. Still, with the incorporation of new methods, ideas, and courses into the program, the challenge was met without difficulty. With courses ranging from general science to conservation to physics, students were able to say, even more this year than others, that the KHS science programs provided more than the essential facts.

Owing much of its success as a department to new methods and concepts, the Social Studies Department of Knoxville Junior-Senior High School functioned as a medium for the exchange of new ideas with reliance on the past as the basis. Embarked on transition from traditional courses to individualized study, the department found its aim not only in familiarizing students with historical events of past and present, but also in aiding them to understand why these are so important. Incorporating individual projects and independent studies into the curriculum was in part an answer to this; increased use of A-V materials and modern techniques was another. The total picture produced by the department was one of reason — learning to reason, reasoning out answers, and forming own reasons.

In-school-training plays a major role in any vocational program, and this was especially true in the Business Department this year. In training students for positions in the business world, the department's curricula was designed to allow the greatest number of students to enroll in the greatest possible number of different, but inter-related courses. By completing several commercial courses, students who sought employment after graduation were rewarded in their business-skill proficiency.

In aiding students to keep up with the demands of the new decade, the Mathematics Department produced a threefold program this year: to give students an understanding of basic arithmetic, to teach them a love for higher mathematics, and to provide an opportunity for independent studies within the program. Introducing the "new" math at an earlier age helped to accelerate the program, thus setting new standards and preparing students to a higher degree.

Mr. Logsdon points the way to the future.

FFA-FHA prepare students for adulthood

Preparing students for roles as adults was only one of the endeavors proposed by Ag and Home Economics instructors this year. Working toward this goal, homemaking students studied the basics of sewing, cooking, grooming, child care, and decorating. Their agriculture counterparts under Mr. Litchfield's guidance, took part in projects designed to help pupils understand the importance of animal husbandry, farm mechanics, and crop selection.

An increase in the number of students taking the driving phase of driver's education made possible another addition to the KHS faculty this year. Mr. Steele joined Mr. Royar at mid-year. Together the two joined — experience and inexperience — to bring knowledge of safe driving habits into the skills of driver's education students. As well, Industrial Arts students gained the wisdom of the use of tools that are necessary in the fields of carpentry and mechanics. This was accomplished with the help of the experienced Mr. Bricker.

With other departments finding their main concern in building healthy minds, the Physical Education Department of KHS concentrated its efforts on building strong bodies. Combining skill activities such as basketball, football, tumbling, and soccer with knowledge of sports rules, the programs were modeled so as to give students a wide sampling of activities. As well, extending the sportsmanlike principles learned in PE Classes helped to make Knoxville students fit physically as well as mentally.

The Music Department lived up to the high expectations of the school and community once again this year, as it produced gifted individual musicians, and thus a superior band and orchestra.

The Library continued to offer the KHS students valuable information and a quiet haven for serious study. College bound seniors especially appreciated the presence of Mr. McKillip, who aided many in their plans and decisions for higher education.

Cooks and bus drivers serve school well

Due to lack of interest, the cafeteria has been cancelled.

While the familiar adage "Too many cooks spoil the broth" may prove true in many instances, KHS cookery served in the cafeteria each day is the exception rather than the rule. These gourmet's well-planned meals provide the students with nourishment and vivacious energy lasting through the long bus rides home. Our jolly chauffeurs cope with the trials of weather, tired vehicles, and a gang of kids which would drive any mother crazy, and still deliver students safely to their destinations.

"Everyone's Gone to the Moon" introduced a superior year for the Senior Class. This high standard was upheld by their superb athletes who helped present the school with a 25-1 basketball season. However, it took "Everybody's Crazy" to bring to light the true characters of some of their members. The accomplishments of still others were recognized at the completion of the year as several students received scholastic honors. Flickering lights and a flooded parking lot added a final touch to joy-filled commencement exercises and the beginning of new experiences for the Class of 1970.

Juniors hold smorgasbord and chili suppers

Junior Class Officers: Vice President Bob White, President Alan Seeger, Secretary Julie Meyer, and Treasurer Barb Peck.

Displaying a highly successful school year, the Junior Class was involved in numerous money-making projects in an effort to fulfill their dreams of hosting an unforgettable prom. With an ability to work together, the juniors again successfully held their annual smorgasbord and several chili suppers. Scrap drives were also held, helping to up their income to a bit over $1000. Later in the year, class rings came and with them the feeling of finally belonging to the group of upperclassmen. With a successful year behind them, the juniors looked forward to the wonderful glories of being seniors.

Entering their second year of high school, the Class of '72 had the enthusiasm necessary for success. This success came early in the year for the sophomores, as their Homecoming float captured a well-deserved first place. Experience gained in their freshman year aided the class in both their academic and financial endeavors. Selling wrapping paper and producing both a fun night and pancake breakfast were among the many projects undertaken in an effort to supplement the treasury. Their combined experience and enthusiasm enabled the future upperclassmen to execute both a pleasurable and profitable academic year.

In order to become full members of the Senior High, most of the Class of '73 began displaying their talents through their participation in various clubs. Their opinions and suggestions on how to rule KHS were voiced for the first time in the Senior High Student Council by their active representatives. To better their class financially, the freshmen sold lightbulbs and served at concessions. All in all, the class had a very outstanding year, and one can be sure that the members of the Class of '73 will faithfully aid KHS in future years just as they have done this year.

Looking forward to graduation from Junior High, the Eighth Graders worked very hard to make this year a profitable one. Activities of the class were varied, exhibiting the many talents and versatilityes of the members. Maintaining a newspaper-style bulletin board in the gym's hall was one of these projects. A very successful fun night, pop bottle drive, and party honoring the Seventh Graders were others. Completing their last year of Junior High with success, the Class of '74 looked forward to entering the Senior High with much pleasure and anticipation.

SEVENTH GRADE OFFICERS, Rick Carlson, Vice President; Jolene Martin, Secretary-Treasurer; and Steve Hickerson, President, display refined humor when asked their opinion of the cafeteria food.

This year the Class of '75 embarked upon their endeavors with exuberance! Soon after becoming accustomed to the ways of KHS, the class held a work day which also featured a pop bottle drive. Other money-making projects included the selling of school sweatshirts. To keep the Junior High informed on the news of the county and state, the Seventh Graders were in charge of posting current news items on the Junior High Bulletin Board. From their success with this year's activities, one may feel sure that this class will be successful in their future years.

Class' athletes, musicians, leaders, scholars

The dream of every high school student—senior year—seemed to arrive too early and end too late for the Class of '70. With their last week's activities beginning with Baccalaureate, the class started along the fateful stretch before receiving diplomas. Skip Day at Lake Landuit brought indulgence in some not-so-grown-up activities such as water fights. But the culmination of twelve years of work was in commencement, however, for the class reached its goal amid rain, flickering lights that eventually went out, and the flash of lightening.

Enter the Young

Memories are made not imagined. Being JESTER editor in 1970 has given me many irreplaceable memories. This year KHS has been a place for the young with the good times out-weighing the bad. We have tried to capture some of these good times in the JESTER 1970. At this time I wish to mention those individuals who were young in spirit as well as in body that helped make this a book for you—a book for the young. Junior Editor “Hotshot” Beardsley learned how to become confused in one easy lesson. Without her, however, the book could never have been completed. “Sweety, Swede, Jimmy Pooh” Johnson kept us from becoming grouches by his unlimited amount of humor—his layouts were tremendous. The copy of “Jiff, Rockie, Dick Butkus” Algren expressed in words what many of us would find hard to relate to others. Not only did “Para-Cookie, window-breaker” England produce an organized and “beauteous” index but also some copy and clever captions. “HP” Thompson, “Honey” Mastin, “Dummy” Tom Mastin, and John Cowman hid behind doors and in doorways just to take pictures of “you-know-who” for dedication. Their photography has captured many happy and cherishable moments. The quartet of “Deanie” Shepherd, “Duke” Simmons, “Melon” Clark, and “Jonesie” Jones produced a great sports section as well as making brilliant contributions to other areas of the book. With the help of Linda Lockwood and Jo Gooley, Business Manager Carol Peck was able to gain many patrons. Brian Smith and “Geraldine” Burks were always there in a clinch. Whether it come to writing captions, copy, headings, or drawing layouts, we could always count on them. Fearless Merrielle Turnbull set her quick wits to work during deadline to save us all from becoming exhausted and short-tempered. Among our other ready, willing, and able workers were Peg Stevens, Diana Courter, and Karen Sanford. These girls came to the meetings, saw the problems, and conquered them. Drafted into being on the staff was Miss “Candle” Wick. Not only did she accomplish a great deal for the book, but she also became a good friend to a great majority of us on the staff. Our great advisor, “Coach” Payne, pulled us through many heavy and trying times. We gave her only a small token of our appreciation—Dedication 1970—in hopes that she will remember us always as we will remember her.

How we got the book completed never ceased to amaze me. The sights and sounds of the young such as Tootsie Roll Pops, tongue contests, “Y-oooo,” volleyball during board meetings, trips to Lake Storey, “Do you remember that song, ‘Honey?’” breaking windows, trips to “Coach’s” house, sliding down dusty banisters, crunchy cookies, etc., all helped as well as hindered the pace of the book.

One thing is certain. Despite all the teasing, “slamming,” and grouchiness, we have all become very close friends. We worked as a whole with no major divisions or wars and developed what we believe to be a great yearbook. We all hope that you will cherish this book as much as we do and that it will help you to recall many pleasant memories of being in high school, among friends, and most important of all—being young.

Monica Jones

“Jimmy Pooh” exemplifies the mentality of the staff.

This marks the end of the 1970 JESTER!

and, I'm lucky
I just get to be the page. Well, here goes. How High School going? Don't be to bad! That's impossible for you isn't it. Ha! Kathy

Pam,
Good luck
in the future,
And in K.H.S.,
Sandie

Pam,
You are real cool - I hope you stay that way

Pam, I'm because have fun with you can with that, since of humor
you're a neat kid
stay that way.
